Notes & Details

Whether used at a catered event or a hotel breakfast buffet, this dual-purpose Acopa Voyage 11 qt. round stainless steel induction soup chafer with glass top and soft-close lid is great for keeping soups, sides, vegetables, pastas, and entrees at perfect serving temperatures. The stainless steel unit is attractive, safe to use with its induction-ready design, and easy to access with its soft-close, hinged lid. Compatible with induction heating elements, its induction bottom creates an excellent heating surface and eliminates the hassle of using chafer fuel. Induction chafers also provide best-in-class heat distribution with no hot or cold spots, and they allow you to maintain a constant temperature for longer periods of time than other, traditional chafers. Because there is no open flame, this chafer eliminates the hazard of burns and fire for a safer working environment. Plus, the unit's included utensil holder eliminates the need to place serving utensils within food and helps to keep your serving station free of messes.

This chafer keeps soups, stews, dips, and sauces at perfect serving temperatures when used with an induction heating element. When opting for traditional use, simply pair this chafer unit with its compatible 11 qt. chafer stand and fuel holder. Made of durable, stainless steel with an attractive mirror-polished finish, this chafer is sure to attract hungry guests and elevate your establishment's overall presentation! Not only does its elegant dome cover help keep food warm and covered to prevent contamination, it features a clear glass window that allows guests to see what's inside without lifting the lid! The lid is also hinged so it won't become misplaced, while the soft-close feature prevents guests from slamming the lid down and causing scratches. A large, easy-to-grasp handle is attached to the lid, making it easy to access the food inside when the lid is closed.
