Outdoor Message Center with Readerboards

This attractive message center features a readerboard display with large letters, making messages easier to read compared to paper notices. These signs can be conveniently placed outside of establishments for those walking or driving by to see its contents comfortably and without strain. The boards offer a reliable and versatile method for displaying brief and concise messages such as hours of operation or event times. The readerboard's white background brightens the bold letters and makes them stand out, ensuring that the messages will be seen. For facilities that are open during the night, an illuminated perimeter will flood the entire cabinet, making it possible to read the board in darkness. Two backlit options are available in order to make messages more readable during all hours of the day.
